

CM, KS and DP lead the way with 11 victories

CM creates breathing room behind a strong performance

Effective date: 2019-11-26

11 wins was enough to earn our top respects in week 12 which was posted by our friends CM, KS and DP. With that CM was able to distance himself from the pack that was hot on his heels just a week ago and here he sits 4 games up on the next picker with 5 weeks remaining. Great weeks for those mentioned above and quite possibly a turning point week for CM, but we will have to stay tuned to see if his recent hot picking performances continue to hold water. Stay thirsty CM! Rounding out the week we had SR post 10 wins and SS and MS scrapping to keep pace with 9 wins. Still worthy performances, but not exactly what the doctor ordered entering the stretch drive.

Loner news was almost nonexistent compared to the type of weeks we've seen posted this season. We had one to note, and one victory to be acknowledged as MM scored with TB over ATL. Impressive stuff MM, oh how we've missed you on the loner boards and hope to see you again soon!!

As we make our way into week 13, the tension just continues to build even further. Weekly performances matter more and more now as members battle for top spots and try to prove why they deserve to be recognized. CM made his case here in week 12, and the pressure is definitely on, but this thing doesn't end 'til week 17 is in the books. Week 13 awaits and will commence on Thanksgiving day as we will be blessed with 3 games, so don't forget to make those picks!!...who will make the next move?

Happy Thanksgiving,

Still Pimpin',
