

SS, KS and SR notch 10 wins a piece

SS creates some breathing room at the top

Effective date: 2020-10-15

Week 5 featured a trifecta at the top with SS, KS and SR pulling down 10 wins each keeping all 3 in a gridlock where they stood on the leaderboard (SS being the only one happy about it). Just behind them were the next generation of pickers CM, LF, MS and PM who threw up a 9-5 record on the week which isn't too shabby but still leaves room for improvement...stay hungry young bucks! Overall, Nice job to the top performers in week 5!

Moving forward it's important to note that, as we have seen in recent weeks, the NFL continues to have to bob and weave with the schedule and make changes on the fly. That being said, the boys in IT are working feverishly to keep pace with the ever changing landscape and will make sure that games are changed to their correct weeks/times as we get the information from the National Football League. In the meantime, if there is a game that is postponed in the coming weeks, continue to lock in all your picks and once that game has been moved to its new week/time you will be able to make adjustments to it. The PFVCC appreciates your cooperation through unprecedented times.. A huge tip of the cap to the IT department, we wouldn't be able to do it without you!

6 games circled on the schedule for Loner watch. DR led things off but unfortunately all of New York let him down as NYJ lost to ARZ and NYG couldn't overcome DAL. NF fell victim to the same fate as PHI couldn't hold down PIT down the stretch. Tough take guys! PM went 1 and 1 on his 2 loners as OAK (LV) was able to shock KC, but MIN came up just short against SEA. Nice pick PM! Finally SR, with the most demonstrative win of the bunch, picked MIA over SF. Very nicely played SR!

Now who's ready to make a run in week 6? Let's see!

Still pimpin'

LF