

Covid flares up causes NFL scheduling drama

Successful week for the field among the madness

Effective date: 2020-12-03

It will be a quick wrap up of week 12 because apparently the NFL is deciding to play a game every day of the week.. But hey, we aren't complaining about being able to crack a brew and watch football on a Wednesday. In fact, most of us don't have much to complain about after great performances were a dime a dozen this week. 7 Members took top honors by posting 11 victories (including the top 5 players on the leaderboards) which meant week 12 was a stalemate. Short, sweet and to the point.

Week 12 featured 2 loner picks. One by DR and one by MM. DR was unable to get a W with his TB pick as they couldn't outlast Patty Mahomes and his brilliance down the stretch. MM suffered the same fate in a truly bitter fashion, being that his DEN team was forced to play a game with the coaches wife at quarterback due to Covid protocols (not really but it might as well have been). Safe to say it was a tough 60 minutes between those lines for DEN. Tough week boys, but keep the attempts coming!!

We move on to week 13.. Wishing you all the best of luck down the stretch..I feel like we are all going to need it.

Still Pimpin',

LF