

KS & MS tag team top honors; gain a game on SS

SS still able to build a cushion. Sits 3 up with 4 to go

Effective date: 2020-12-10

Here in mid December is what we call "crunch time".. The time where every pick matters and the GOO becomes the focal point of each week. Champions are built during this time and without strong performances here, the rest of the picking season could end up a moot point. MS & KS refuse to let 2020 end in disappointment as they posted 12 wins in week 13 to prove that they are still forces to be reckoned with. With these showings they both tighten the gap between themselves and the leader, and at 5 and 6 games back respectfully they are right in the thick of things..Don't count them out! Well done gents. SS and DP follow up with solid performances of their own at 11 wins a piece which was enough to push SS' lead to 3 as the 2nd and 3rd place holders (CM and MM) couldn't keep the pace. Now with 4 weeks to go it looks to be a 5 team race and believe me when I say this should be good!!

Holidays remind us that its a tough time to be a loner... We had 4 loner picks this week and only 1 came out with holiday cheer. BS was ultimately disappointed in his ARZ pick as they couldn't knock off LAR. LF put trust in a PHI team that is about as trustworthy as an Ex-girlfriend.. safe to say they let him down against a good GB team. And DR's NYJ pick almost proved to be a winner, if it wasn't for them making the most NYJ play of all time and allowing a TD in OT on a blown coverage. We feel for all of you.. MS was the only loner to pick a winner as CLE was able to knock off an up and down TEN team, who woulda thought?.. Our friend MS did, and for that he deserves a wink and a nod.. Nice picking sir!!

The wind is at our backs here in this crazy NFL season... buckle up, we are headed to week 14.

Still Pimpin',

LF