DP snags 12 wins; reaches 1400 career wins in the process

SS retains 3 game cushion with 3 to go

Effective date: 2020-12-18

Never say never… That was and is the theme of the final weeks of the season for those trailing SS.. Many look to dig deep to put together a string of exceptional weeks, and here in week 14 it was DP that made his stand.. DP came up big this past week as he was able to outperform the field with his 12-4 record. With this showing he narrowed his deficit, but still has an uphill battle if he is to pull off one of the most miraculous comebacks in PFVCC history.. Speaking of PFVCC history, DP was also able to notch his 1400th career victory along the way which deserves recognition in and of itself. Nice job on the week and the achievement! Next was KS, who tallied 11 wins which was enough for him to make movements and perhaps set himself up to strike here in the final weeks. KS has been an underrated picker to this point, but he's been steady all year and PFVCC analysts expect him to kick it into closing gear here down the stretch. Another dark horse to look out for! Nice picking KS! Rounding out the top 6 still in contention, SS, CM and MM all had 10 wins (with no movement) and MS rounded things out with 9 which saw him lose a game. 3 weeks left and a 7 game spread separates 6 players. Who will fall out of the race, and who will step up during the final sprint? Answers will come, it's just a matter of who and when… stay tuned.

Loner picks were plentiful so lets go on down the line here… BS went 0-2 with CIN and JAX falling well short of their tasks.. SR went 1-2 on his three attempts. DEN came to play, but MIA and MIN couldn't get it done. LF went 1-0 with CHI playing lights out against HOU.. Kudos to all the loners, although out of the race you still bring the grit!

I sense drama ahead! Here's to week 15.

Still Pimpin'

LF