

SS leads the week with 10 wins

SR and KS with 9; SR lead now sits at 5

Effective date: 2021-10-27

We are through week 7 and the season is really starting to take shape. Everyone is beginning to hit their stride and before you blink we will be halfway through this football season. But that's to come and this is now and week 7 belonged to SS. SS, who has started this PFVCC season flying under the radar, has been chipping away and trying to get back into contention. His performance this week helped as his 10 victories gave him top honors and was enough for him to leapfrog MS for the 4th spot on the leaderboards. Nicely done SS! SR and KS weren't far behind as they ripped down 9 wins of their own to keep their momentum going.

Speaking of momentum, our loner news continues to stay hot as we saw our 7th consecutive week of at least 4 loner picks made. It must be something in the air... We start with DP who went with PHI and although they started strong they couldn't hold on down the stretch. MM and MS followed the same fate with their NYJ and MIA picks respectively...and although on the losing end this week its not about how many times you fall, its about how many times you get back up!! Nice try you three! DR split his loners with his HOU getting throttled by ARZ, but TEN picking up the pieces as they sent KC into a tailspin. Nice bit of picking there DR!

That's it for week 7 friends... We roll on into week 8... Enjoy your football filled Halloween Sunday!

Your President,

LF