

KS leads the week with 11 wins

SR and LF stay hot with 10 winners; SS stumbles

Effective date: 2021-11-24

Week 11 was another tough week to predict in the NFL and we are seeing that no team is an absolute lock to win any given week. In fact, to this point in the 2021 season home-field advantage really isn't an advantage at all. With road teams going 84-77 against the "hometown favorites" through week 11, it just goes to show we are in the midst of a rollercoaster type of season. With that being said it's time to buckle in and get ready for anything. Its a good thing that KS enjoys rollercoasters because he looked like a six-flags aficionado in week 11 as he pulled down 11 wins to lead all pickers. Nice ride KS! SR and LF continue to battle at the top as they both had 10 win weeks to keep the thrill going. Solid weeks gents... SS was another player to watch this past week, but unfortunately it didn't go the way he had hoped. Only able to notch 7 wins, he saw himself drop a few on the leaderboards.. Plenty of football remains for anyone to make a run, but it comes down to who is able to pick confidently and maneuver the loops and corkscrews this NFL season is throwing at us.

DR and MM were our loners in week 11 as each of them posted 2 a piece. DR had a tough go as none of his loner teams could force the upset. His ATL pick got shutout by NE and DET lost a close one against CLE. Tough week DR but we have to respect the aggressiveness! MM had a bit more luck as his IND pick were up to the task against BUF. Kudos on a great pick! The NYJ on the other hand weren't so lucky, but 1-2 is solid in the loner game! Nice job MM!

Week 12 is upon us, as is Thanksgiving! Remember there are 3 games to lock in by Wednesday evening. Good luck my fellow pickers and Happy Thanksgiving to you and your families!

Your President,

LF
